RUSSIAN ARMYJapanese General Shows Great Generalship in Bringing His Forces Together Quickly.

KUROPATKIN COMPLETELY HEMMED

Naval Fight at Port Arthur Ends in the Retreat of Russians Into the Harbor for Safety--

Sortie Failed.

(Special by Scripps-Mellae.)
St. Petersburg, Aug. 4.—A feeling of great anxiety pervades all classes today as the result of the latest intelligence from the front. It is felt that the next few days will decide the fate of Kuropatkin's army. Consequently all Russia is intensely interested in the approaching crisis, which besides involving the national honor, imperils the lives of friends and relatives fighting under the flag of the czar.

The net spread by the Japanese seems to be gradually enveloping the entire Russian army south of Mukden, and the only gleam of hope is that Viceroy Alexieff may be able to dispatch from Harbin an army sufficiently strong to enable Kuropatkin to break through the Japanese lines.

This for Publication

This opinion, however, is not expressed in official circles. There the belief is maintained, at least for publication, that the armies are evenly matched, and that the retreat from Hal Cheng really strengthens Kuropatkin's position by concentrating his army around its base and enabling him to take the offensive against Kuroki.

Port Arthur, it is said in the same quarters, is still in satisfactory shape, but the latest rumor that 20,000 Japanese were killed in a general attack on the place is not confirmed.

Being Cut Off by Kuroki

Sin-Min Tan, Aug. 4.—It seems from the latest reports reaching here that the Japanese are moving to surround Liao Yang. The report that a strong Japanese force had made its appearance at Kukiatz on the Mukden road a few miles off the great military road and driven the Russian garrison back on Liao Yang, indicates that Kuroki intends to cut off Kuropatkin's retreat in that direction and force a decisive battle at or near Liao Yang.

Another later report says the Japanese have managed to move still closer to the Russian base and have occupied Chwang Miao on the main road to Mukden with a force of several thousand men and a considerable number of heavy guns.

Kuroki Takes Two Cities

On the south and east, Kuroki's troops are said to have carried An Ping and Tangherin, advancing from these places to Shitou on the Feng Wang Cheng-Liao Yang road and to Yi Mei Chwang on the road leading from Tang Huyen to Liao Yang. The Russians are said to have made a stubborn resistance at both places, but were compelled to retire in the face of superior forces and the reckless bravery of the Japanese.

It was learned today that Kuropatkin had decided to abandon Hal Cheng and that his rear guard is now located near Chang-Ling-Sze, while Nodzu's army is moving in the same direction and Oku swinging around to the west of the Russian line of retreat.

Desperate Fight

Che Foo, Aug. 4.—A desperate three days assault on the inner defenses on the northern and eastern sides of Port Arthur has failed, according to advice brought by two junks.

A Russian who escaped from Port Arthur via Pigeon bay on the night of July 29 states that the earth trembled under the terrific cannonading which began at 4 a. m. July 26, and ended during the night of July 28, when the battle ceased.

A Chinese junk has arrived here on a separate junk confirms the Russian statement that the Russian killed and wounded during the assault numbered between 5,000 and 6,000. The Japanese in their repeated assaults against the eastern forts on the hills, through barbed-wire entanglements and over mines displayed fanatical bravery.

Japanese Loss Is 20,000

They were mowed down by the hail of shells and bullets and the explosion of mines under their feet. Their losses are estimated at 20,000. The Russian declares that the Russians held all the eastern forts leading to Golden Hill, and that the Japanese, shattered and exhausted, returned to the eastward.

As related by the passengers from the two junks, the Japanese advance, which began from Kwokan before daybreak July 25, was directed against Kihwan, Kinkhun, Kinkshan, and Pichotushan forts, lying near shore. The Russian outposts were driven back.

Fleet Leaves Harbor

On the morning of July 27 the Russian fleet steamed out, keeping under the protection of the Golden Hill guns. The Russian vessels did not fire on the Japanese and soon returned to their anchorage. The assault on the northern side of the city occurred July 27. The Japanese left at Hsikan, advanced on the Russians at Chinsihying, but were repulsed. The junks were within hearing distance for three days after leaving, but no more firing was heard. The Russian hospitals at Port Arthur are said to be swamped. Thousands of Chinese, the owners having been evicted with the exception of one, who acts as caretaker of each place. Medical attention is adequate.

Tokio, August 4.—Admiral Togo reports that a fleet of twelve Russian destroyers, four torpedo boats and several gun boats sailed from Port Arthur on Monday night but immediately retreated when the Japanese guard ships came out. General Kuroki reports the forces under his command have advanced, and are occupying Hal Cheng. The greatest battle of the war will probably take place there tomorrow. The supplies are being hurried forward from New Chwang. Gen. Oku's forces consisting of fifty thousand occupy the front line. Nodzu with fifty thousand holds the left flank, Kuroki with a hundred thousand occupies the rear. The Japanese have over a hundred guns.

Last Line

New Chwang, August 4.—According to word received here, the Russians at Port Arthur have been driven to their last line defense. The Japanese have 350 guns in action on the defenses.

Japanese Keep Going Forward

St. Petersburg, Aug. 4.—Hal-Cheng has fallen and the victorious Japanese are pressing on Liao-Yang, with the Russian outposts less than a score of miles from the city's walls. Whether a general engagement is progressing about the city at the present time is not known, as the latest official advice are dated Aug. 2, and press messages have been stopped.

In view of this latter development many close observers of events in this city believe the report that Kuropatkin is sending his force north as fast as the railroad can carry them, leaving enough troops outside his main position to screen his movements. There is a persistent story here that the Russian army has been moving north for several days, but official confirmation cannot be obtained.

Prepares Winter Quarters.

According to a message received from Harbin Kuropatkin has ordered the removal from that place of all useless civilians in order to provide the greatest possible accommodation for the winter quarters of the Russian army.

Unless the bulk of Kuropatkin's army already has been withdrawn north of Liao-Yang it is difficult to see how he could now do so with such great pressure. The Japanese being almost upon his main lines, inasmuch as portions of four army corps were engaged in the fighting up to Tuesday night, and as these corps comprise three-quarters of the whole Russian army, it seems certain that nothing except a portion of the stores and munitions have yet been removed. Nevertheless, well-informed military attaches express the opinion that Kuropatkin will get away with the bulk of the main army if he finds the chances against him.

It is reported that Viceroy Alexieff, who had gone to Harbin on his way to Vladivostok, returned to Liao-yang and conferred with Kuropatkin regarding the situation.

Thousands Have Fallen.

The decisive battle of the campaign is regarded as certain by many if the Japanese energetically follow up their preliminary successes of the last three days. At various points the fighting has been of a desperate and bloody character, the Russians offering the most stubborn resistance. The losses, therefore, although their extent is not yet established, must be heavy on both sides. Between 6,000 and 8,000 men is one estimate of the Russian losses.

Kuropatkin's armies are concentrating upon Liao-yang, falling back respectively upon Anshangshan, Lian-shan and Anping. These three points form a ring of closely knit defenses around Liao-yang, and would enable Kuropatkin to risk a general engagement. The only cause for anxiety is Anping, and Kuropatkin's words that he hoped the troops would hold that place indicate a misgiving. The Japanese evidently realized the advantage of attacking it is point, and they led their strongest advance along the Salween-Liao-yang Bay.

KEMP'S CASE IS A DECIDED PUZZLE

May Convene the Legislature to Oust the Secretary of the Treasury Department.

(Special by Scripps-Mellae.)
Madison, Wis., Aug. 4.—A special session of the legislature is one of the contingencies which may arise over the fact that the land sales record books of State Treasurer John J. Kempf have failed to balance. For ten days past Gov. La Follette and Attorney General Sturdevant have been looking up the law, and they have come to the conclusion that the retiring of Kempf will be no easy matter even should he not secure the additional bond demanded by the governor.

Mr. Kempf in his official status is coordinate with the governor and it is said the governor and Mr. Sturdevant are both of the opinion that impeachment proceedings by the legislature may be necessary for the removal of Mr. Kempf, if cause should exist.

It was announced today that the La Follette state committee will meet in Milwaukee in a few days and fill the vacancy on the ticket caused by the resignation of Mr. Kempf, who resigned on discovery of the supposed shortage of $3,400 in his accounts. It is said some Milwaukee German American will be appointed to the vacancy, presumably William Kleckhefer, a wealthy manufacturer and owner of a large farm.

He is a strong La Follette man; while Kempf is counted stalwart. It is said the stalwarts are endeavoring to make him repudiate his resignation and remain on the ticket, but as the resignation has been accepted the state central committee considers him out.

WAIT TO SHARE ESTATE
BRINGS BROKEN HEART

Aged Man Dies in Poverty Despite Fact That He Was Heir to Fortune of $50,000,000.

Boonville, Ind., Aug. 4.—John Chalmey, aged 70, died in poverty at his home at Owensville, Ind., a few miles from here.

Some time ago Chalmey received word from Cleveland, O., that he was an heir to the estate of Leonard Case of Cleveland, O., valued at $50,000,000. The mother of Chalmey was a sister of Case, but from some reason Chalmey was never able to prove his claim to the estate, although he lived in the hope that the wealth would come to him some day and died of broken heart. His last words were about the wealth that he thought belonged to him and which he never enjoyed.

Attorneys in Cleveland who had charge of the case for Chalmey contend that the members of his family will eventually receive their share of the estate.

ELECTION CASE IS READY TODAY

Could Go Before the Supreme Court for Settlement at Once if Necessary.

(Special by Scripps-Mellae.)
Madison, Wis., Aug. 4.—George G. Greene of Green Bay, the well-known lawyer, who is to be one of the attorneys for the anti-La Follette people in the argument of the state ticket before the supreme court, arrived in the city last evening and is in conference today with John M. Allen. It is understood that the anti-La Follette case is already for presentation to the court and that the final papers in the case have been prepared.

Although neither Mr. Olin nor Mr. Greene will discuss the case, it is understood both believe that on the facts and the law the Cook ticket can be well supported before the court and that both lawyers are very confident of winning the case.

The petition will be presented to the supreme court Tuesday morning and will be a request for an order for an alternative writ of mandamus demanding the state ticket headed by S. A. Cook be placed in the regular publication column on the ballot, or that Secretary of State - Honser show cause why such action be not taken.

NO LET UP IN
STOCK YARDSInspector Hunt Issues Warning to Rioters,
To Keep the Peace, or Be Shot.

THE SITUATION IS CRITICAL TODAY

Police Are Weary of Being Buffeted Around and Shooting in the Air—Will Now Shoot
To Kill.

(Special by Scripps-Mellae.)
Chicago, August 4.—The talk of settlement of the packing-house strike was resumed this morning and the advisability of re-opening negotiations is being discussed among the officials of the Chicago Federation of Labor who believe that the packers will not refuse to meet with the representatives of the unions. Packers have notified employment agencies to cease sending them men as many of those who have been received from that source are unsatisfactory and cannot be used. Union officials have instructed market-wagon drivers to cease hauling from private and branch storage-houses meat solicited by the big concerns. Ice dealers are also instructed not to deliver ice to meat-dealers who persist in purchasing supplies from packers against whom the unions are fighting.

Means Business
Inspector Hunt is mad; he means business. In the Hyde park station house in the presence of a large crowd he delivered the following warning:

"The next time my men are called over to the stockyards and beaten up there will be more men taken to Meiners's morgue than will be brought to this station. Take this warning to the various unions, so they cannot say I did not fully warn them when the next riot occurs. Those toughs may not value their lives, but I value mine; those of my police officers and of innocent people. This thing of throwing bricks and clabbing innocent people has about come to a finish. It seems you union strikers must be taking the police department for a pack of schoolboys—or targets. You do not value a human life more than you do a dog running in the streets. I am tired of giving you warnings and having you pay no attention. Now I mean business. I will stop these attacks on the police and innocent people and rioting. The militia will not be called out to do it either. This is my final warning to you, so take heed."

Inspector Hunt delivered this warning to Attorney Cole and Representative Cricker of the Packers' union in the corridor of the stockyards police station, in the presence of a large crowd.

Asked for Release
The union representatives had asked that the twenty-eight men arrested for rioting be released or admitted to bail. When Inspector Hunt ceased talking they turned and left the station without speaking another word.

GIRL LEADS YOUTHFUL
BAND OF MISCREANTS

Motherless Miss Becomes Captain of Boy Bandits and Lands in State Reformatory.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 4.—One of the three supposed boys arrested recently for robbing a store was discovered to be a girl. In the juvenile court she gave her name as Ada Parker, aged 12, and said she had been passing for a boy for three years. Her mother died at that time, and her father started to tramp to this city from Newark and dressed her in overalls. Later she put on a boy's outfit and had her hair cut short. No one ever discovered her sex, until she played and acted as their leader in many robberies in the suburbs. She was sent to the reform school for girls in Trenton.

or word. When asked if the foregoing statement had been made by him to the union leader, Inspector Hunt said:

"Yes, I said that, and I mean it. My police officers are not going to stand up and get the worst of it after this, as long as they have revolvers in their pockets. I have issued no formal order to my men to quit shooting in the air, but they understand."

Plans to harass further the proprietors of plants will be put into effect by the teamsters. The market wagon drivers were instructed to cease hauling from private and branch cold storage-houses. The ice teamsters were told not to deliver ice to meat-dealers who persisted in purchasing supplies of the companies against which the unions are fighting.

Officials of the Chicago Federation of Labor discussed informally the advisability of trying to reopen negotiations with the packers.

President Schardt was favorable to such an attempt, and while it is not certain it is probable the general labor leaders will try to get a conference. They believe the packers will not refuse to meet with representative union men.

Notices were sent by the packers to the employment agents who have been hiring nonunion workers to stop engaging them. Many of the recruits, it was said, were unsatisfactory and could not be used. The agents were paid 25 cents for each man hired and it was to their interest to send a class of workers that would not be acceptable, and so keep up the demand.

The day was productive of several disturbances and of one serious outbreak at night. These disorders were caused, for the most part, by the sympathetic action of the street car conductors and motormen, who repeatedly refused to stop to take on workers who had come from their toll. While the nonunion men and women were thus forced to wait crowds of strikers and their sympathizers collected and attacked them.

A SIMPLE GIRLISH MODEL

White china silk with sufficient body to retain the shape well, and yet sufficiently sheer to disclose the tint of the foundation slip—for the new-made calls for the colored linings beneath the sheer and shimmery summer fabrics—was selected for this simple commencement frock, which is girlish in the extreme. To a round yoke, which is fashioned of alternate entre deux de Valenciennes and tucks, the blouse is beautifully skirted, the oscillating stitch of the sewing machine accomplishing this just as well as handwork does. Three tucks run around the body, and the fastening is accomplished in the back. The skirt is in gored, each having three tucks run in on the straight edge, and three tucks also appear above the hem, which in this instance is faced with a broad band of white velveteen, which affords the correct flou firmness at the foot. The sleeve has a loose upper cap, beneath which a full puff sleeve is inserted with very good effect.

From the present republican tariff policy of protection to American industries, back to the democratic tariff policy of closed factories and open soup-houses. Who says change?

From a president who stands upon a platform of gold to a candidate who stands upon a platform of silver with a hankering after gold. Who says change?

From a president whose principles and platform pledge him to the up-building of our navy and our merchant marine to a candidate whose party platform is against both those necessities. Who says change?

From a president who says what he means and means what he says, to all men, and whose party platform is built on the same lines, to a candidate whose party says one thing while he says another. Who says change?

From a president, the choice of the people, who with his party and its platform is pledged to trust regulation, to a candidate who is a trust nominee. Who says change?

From a president whose entire official life has been a success, and of a nature to fit him for the high office he holds, to a candidate of practically no political training. Who says change?

From a president who at a time of dire emergency got the people coal when they wanted coal, to a candidate who has never been brought face to face with any such crisis. Who says change?

From a president who, when the chance came to get his people the desire of their hearts—an isthmian canal—seized the golden moment of opportunity, and got for them the Panama canal, to a candidate whose party leaders tried to block the way. Who says change?

From Theodore Roosevelt, tried and true with a united party behind him, able to do things, to an untried candidate, whose views are one way and his party platform another, and whose disunited party would not be able to do anything. Who says change?

WALTER J. BALLARD.
Schenectady, July 28.

There is nothing like publicity. Let the people know that you have something to sell and they will ask you how much it costs. Tell them in print how much it costs and they will come and buy. Printer's ink will sell anything on top of the earth.

Those so-called mountaineers referred to in the Free Press who slept at the Madison police station during the republican convention were gentlemen who worked for the cause of the republican party from its formation and not the professional thugs hired by the administration to insult true American citizens.

As a reward for honesty John Young lost his job in the secretary of state's office. Honesty is not a virtue that should be commended evidently in Mr. Honser's list of virtues.

All good fairy tales begin Once upon a time. Well, these political fairy tales have got to go back of Hans Anderson or Grimm world stories if they want to find anything great the democratic party has done.

The Milwaukee News still keeps up its crusade for right against the governor. If the editor wanted to he could tell a few personal experiences he has had with the reformer in the past.

When one section of the party set themselves up as greater than the party itself they usually run into a stone wall, viz., Bryan at the St. Louis convention.

Because Chief of Police Baker, of Madison, told the truth, it is no reason why so many other so-called republicans should perjure themselves to contradict him.

The democrats figure that they may be able to win out if they win a lot of more votes than they have had for the past eight years. That little word it is a wonderful factor.

If the St. Louis fair had expended a little of their big posting money in judicious newspaper advertising their gate receipts would have been larger.

Wisconsin promises to teach the whole country how a model state fair should be run this year and their list of attractions thus named are most excellent.

So really the governor will jump on Mr. Kempf with both feet and make him resign his nice little office. Poor Mr. Kempf.

Fairbanks stated the facts in a nutshell when he said the democrats were not to be trusted to run the government.

Judge Parker is going to resign his position as judge. Poor judge, you are so foolish.

This is circus day. Lock your doors and windows tonight before you go out so as to avoid any loss being discovered tomorrow.

So they have actually broken the news to Senator Fairbanks that he is to be the next vice president?

The Milwaukee Journal at so much per issues till keeps up the trend of the governor's wallings.

It is not always how much a man does that counts as how much he does not do.

Russia still seems to be able to hold her own with Japan in backward movements.

The dog catcher has begun his work. Look out for your dog and your dog tag.

Evidently the Czar of all the Russias has needs to be afraid of the nihilist.

PRESS COMMENT.

Milwaukee Sentinel: The intimation that David B. Hill would be secretary of state in case Parker is elected seems to furnish the occasion for a second ringing telegram.

Sterling Gazette: Between beans and Emerson and pie for breakfast, the aesthetes of Rawston continue to look with scorn on doings in plebeian Chicago.

Chicago Tribune: Calveston, with its new sea wall and its preparations for raising itself above all possible danger from floods hereafter, may be assured that the entire country recognizes and applauds its pluck and energy.

Oshkosh Northwestern: The choosing of the Oshkosh-built boat Sigma to represent this country in the coming races with the Canadian yacht for the Seawanhauk cup is certainly a great feather for Oshkosh and our local builders.

Indianapolis Sentinel: The Wisconsin republicans show no disposition to arbitrate their differences, and are still after each other hammer and tongs. One thing is certain—no democrat will interfere as a peacemaker.

Chicago Inter Ocean: Judge Parker is to attend the St. Louis exposition. Historic spot in St. Louis, which may interest him, is the spot where his telegram struck.

Pepla Star: One dollar paid for a hunting license will hire a game warden to work for Rob La Follette for six hours. Hand in your dollar promptly and avoid the rush.

Superior Telegram: The democratic party seems to be at the present time a combination of conflicting political elements. It reminds one of that dangerous trio, a fog, a steamship and a ledge of rock.

Merrill Advocate: "Unwept, unhonored and unused" in a public way, Robert Lockhart, of Scotland, was buried the other day, and yet it was he who introduced golf into America. The goddess of Fame is strangely capricious at times.

Seranton Tribune: Uncle Gassaway Davis indignantly denies the latest story of the effort that he is worth $300,000,000. Probably when the campaign has passed the democratic solicitors will doubt that Uncle Gassaway is worth even $40,000,000.

Chicago Record-Herald: Henry Labouchere, of the London Truth, has come out for Parker. This may serve in a measure to offset the sickening blow which was sustained by Roosevelt when the Chicago Chronicle threw its support to him.

Boston Transcript: It's rather disturbing news from Pennsylvania that a woman who snored in church and who brought suit because the ushers ejected her has lost her case. The judge even lectured her for her want of reverence and condemned her to pay costs. No doubt many a man reading of this case and fearing for himself a similar mishap will stay away from church next Sunday.

Milwaukee Journal: What has State Treasurer Kempf been doing to himself or what is the state administration trying to do to him? There never was a time in Wisconsin when it was so difficult to get information about public affairs. The half-breeds have so close a corporation that nothing leaks out from the state capital which they wish to conceal. The Kempf matter has a strange look.

Evening Wisconsin: The Wisconsin men who are disappointed at not drawing lands in the Boreal Indian reservation can calm themselves by the thought that they can do as well, if not better, by choosing to locate on lands within their own state. Nine times out of ten, with the same amount of energy and work directed to that end, the resident of Wisconsin can establish himself on new land in his own state that will eventually prove to be more productive as well as more valuable.

Wisconsin State Journal: It harks back a long way to read that a woman who has just died in Rockford, Ill., was married in 1828. She was Mrs. R. M. Parker and passed away at the age of 92, not so old as some people become, yet far beyond the average limit of life. Already 76 years ago she had taken up the responsibilities of married life. John Quincy Adams was then president of the United States, and Napoleon had been dead but seven years. What a long and eventful chapter in the world's history was it hers to witness and live! A son, with whom she made her home in Rockford, was a classmate at Hamilton college of the late Breese J. Stevens, of Madison.

TORPEDOES DAMAGE BIG PLANT

Explosion Wrecks Three Buildings and Injures Three Employees.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 4.—With a report that could be heard over a mile distant several thousand railroad torpedoes packed for shipment in the yards of the Versailles Railway Signal company's plant at Versailles exploded. Three of the buildings of the plant were completely demolished, three employees were seriously injured and every window in the vicinity was broken. The injured are Charles Clingensmith, Charles Bevan and Margaret Gayer. The men are probably fatally hurt. Miss Gayer will recover. The cause of the explosion is not yet known.

THIEF STEALS FROM BANDITO

Masked Men Who Hold Up Saloon Lose Team While in Raid.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 4.—While four masked men were holding up a crowd in a local saloon an unknown man stole a horse and buggy in which the four robbers had driven up to the door of the saloon. The cash drawer of the saloon yielded $40 and those in the place contributed a little more. When the robbers emerged from the place with their booty they found their rig gone and were forced to flee on foot. All escaped.

THE MISERY-HUNTER.
Every one knows her. She has two deep lines between her eyes and a plaintive droop to the corners of her mouth and to her eyebrows.
If any one speaks harshly he means "Her."
If any one criticizes a fault he means "Her."
Whatever is said she applies to "Self."
Every coat seems to fit her and she puts it on.
She wears all the boots that pinch.
She carries a chip on her shoulder from morning until night, and whenever any one comes near her she expects it to be knocked off. The result is the same—she is offended, grieved, hurt, she is so sensitive.
She is losing all the healthy enjoyment that comes her way.
She is missing half her life, because she is looking for snubs.
She says she can't help it. She can't.
It is a very easy matter to let those slights, imagined or real, roll off one like water off a duck's back. It takes a little bravery for the first three or four weeks, but after that it comes natural enough.

BIG CIRCUS HAS ITS TROUBLES

THREATENING CLOUDS PREVENTED THE DAILY PARADE TODAY.

WONDERFUL SIGHTS INSIDE

Famous Old Circus Is Better Than Ever—Fore Finished Performance Pleases Large Audience.

Threatening clouds caused the Barnum & Bailey parade to be abandoned this morning and in its place an announcer drove through the city telling the sad news to the assembled multitude. It did not seem quite right to have a circus without a parade; it did not seem like a circus day without a parade. The parade was to have been a wonderful sight to the crowds. Many were disappointed and many started curious reasons for the non-appearance of the forty-horse band wagon which was to have led the giant parade of the world-famous show.

Blame Officials

Sheriff Appleby was one of the persons blamed for the disaster. He denied all knowledge of the trouble and drove to the grounds to find the real reason, so he might clear himself. The police officers and mayor also came in for their share of the blame. People claimed the circus license was so heavy that they could not afford to give a parade and many other reasons were started. One was that one of the large circus wagons had gone through the Jackson street bridge and two men had been killed. This was a great deal and found to be a car, started by no one knows who. None of the wagons went across this bridge this morning all coming by way of Main street to the show grounds.

The Real Reason

The real reason for there being no parade as given out by William Allen the press representative is as follows: "We had a hard day yesterday owing to the fact we were located in a marshy lot at Madison. In fact, we could not get up all our tents or take all our parade wagons out. We even had to leave some of the animal cages out of the menagerie tent. When we arrived here this morning it looked so threatening and did rain for a little time that Mr. Bailey decided not to expose the members of the circus company to the rain, and so announced there would be no parade. Later when the sun came out the performers had gone downtown and were so scattered that a parade could not be given. He is very sorry to have disappointed the good people of Janesville but he feared a heavy rain exposure to which might endanger the lives of many of his employees."

The Grounds

One gentleman who saw the circus unload early this morning estimated that fully four thousand people were at the depots and went from there to the grounds to witness the pitching of the big tent. The big flat-bottomed cars in which the animals traveled attracted much attention. They are relics of the old Barnum show. Mr. Bailey is partial to them for the memories they recall of the days of the famous "King of Showmen"—P. T. Barnum. Everything about the show is heavy and massive. The center poles of the big tent are solid wood as big as masts of ocean steamers. The seats are firm and secure, it takes men of brawn to put them in position.

The Menagerie

Ever since Mr. Bailey became associated with P. T. Barnum in the circus business the Barnum & Bailey menagerie has been a feature of the circus. This year it is no exception. Instead of two giraffes in a small cage there are four big healthy looking fellows that greet the eye of the spectator when he enters the tent. Then there are the stolid looking elephants, twenty-six of them calmly eating hay and thrusting their trunks out for peanuts from the visitors. The center of the tent is given to a strange assemblage of freaks and strange animals. Here is old Scotty, the keeper of the world-famous Jumbo. Scotty talks to Jumbo every day even though the elephant is dead these many years. The poor old man is in his dotage and pets and caresses the animals under his charge.

Everything Complete

This morning thousands of visitors visited the show grounds. There being no parade to keep them uptown they went to the grounds and watched the everyday work of the circus men. It is like one huge city—a tented city with hundreds of employes. Interesting sights abound every moment—something new and strange to be seen all the time. To one who has never seen a circus unpack and get into position for action it is a sight once seen never to be forgotten.

CURRENT NEWS NOTES

Received a Carload of Watermelons: Hanley Bros., commission merchants of this city, received the third carload of watermelons and were busily engaged in distributing them among the merchants yesterday.

Shops Closed Today: The New Doty works, F. M. Marzluft & Co., and J. Thoroughgood Co.'s plant were closed today to enable the employes to attend the circus.

Aldermen Agrieved: The report this morning that the parade was stopped by the common council by their making the show license for this feature so large has angered many of the aldermen about the city. One prominent city father said this afternoon: "This story is absurd. The council had nothing to do with it and it makes me tired to see the council blamed for everything. I guess if the truth be known the Barnum & Bailey management decided before they arrived they would make no parade. I understand they have done the same thing in other cities and disappointed the crowds; now Janesville has its share and we are blamed for it."

FOUR WANTED FOR STONING A TRAIN

Total of Eleven Suspicious Gentry Behind the Bars at Noon—Chief Hogan on Streets.

At noon today a total of eleven suspicious characters were languishing behind the bars of the city lock-up. Four of these were from Elgin and are wanted for stoning one of the circus trains on the occasion of Barnum & Bailey's recent visit there. Detective McClure of the circus accompanied Officer Brown on his rounds this morning and Marshal Hogan appeared on the streets for the first time since his return from St. Paul.

QUARTERLY MEET OF THE SOCIETY

HUMANE SOCIETY REPORTS ON PAST QUARTER'S WORK.

PLANS FOR FUTURE ARE MADE

Good Work Will Continue to Aid the Poor Oppressed Equine.

The third quarterly meeting of the Humane society was held last evening at the residence of Mr. John Peters. The meeting was called to order by President Helmstreet at half past seven, and the secretary, Mrs. E. F. Woods, read the report of work done since the April meeting. Owing to the warm weather as well as to the influence of the Humane society, there have been but few cases reported of cruelty to animals during the last quarter. Those that have been brought to the notice of the officers are as follows:

April.—Team with load of stone stalled at the steepest part of Court street; driver pounding horses which were overloaded and trying to draw the load up one of the steepest hills in the city. The smaller horse had no shoes on hind feet and one hind leg was swollen to three times its natural size. Protests of observers and people living near by had no effect. The president of the Humane society was telephoned and when he came, told driver to throw off part of the load or be arrested. After throwing off half the load, the horses could not stir the wagon. The People's Ice Co. then hitched one of their heavy teams to the load, and drew it off on South Bluff street. Driver was warned if he came up with another load he would be arrested.

June 4.—Boy complained of for killing birds. Witness failed to appear as promised and case had to be dropped.

June 29.—Old horse belonging to a man in second ward was so weak that he lay down on Main street, could not stand up. President of the Humane society was sent for and with the help of three men got horse on feet. He was taken to pasture and turned out and driver notified that if he drove him for a month he would be arrested. This makes thirty-two cases that have been attended to by the Humane society. A number of complaints have been made and investigated of which no record has been made.

The reports from the Bands of Mercy of which there are now twelve, were given. The annual meeting will be held some time in October in some public place in the city and will be a joint meeting with the Bands of Mercy. The committee appointed by the president to have charge of this meeting was Mrs. John Peters, Mrs. C. Tallman, Mrs. F. A. Bennett, Miss Chittenden, Mr. D. D. Bennett, Mrs. S. C. Burnham and Rev. R. C. Denison. On motion the meeting adjourned.

POOR CARP BLAMED FOR EXIT OF DUCKS

It is Maintained That His Species Have Destroyed the Wild Rice.

It is expected that about a month will be required for the work of cleaning the carp out of Lake Koshkonong, near Oconomowoc. Ted Carroll of Bloomington, Ill., said to be one of the most expert of seine fishermen, who has had charge of the work at Lake Koshkonong, is in charge of the crew of eight men who are carrying on the work for C. K. Froer. Speaking of the work the Madison Journal says:

The destruction of the wild rice beds which in years past furnished different parts of the state is attributed to the voracious proclivities of the German carp. With the disappearance of the rice beds there was also falling off in the number of wild ducks. How to exterminate the carp was an unsolved problem until last summer when C. K. Froer of Sandusky, Ohio, proposed a remedy and without cost to the state, depending wholly upon the sale of the fish for remuneration. Mr. Froer's proposition was accepted and the work began Oct. 15 of last year at Koshkonong. The work at that lake is incomplete and was only suspended on the urgent solicitation of John Dupre and others who spend their summers at Oconomowoc.

He is the guest of Mr. Harry Jackson while in the city.

STOP RIDING ON THE SIDEWALKS

Officer Brown Says That Instructions Have Been Issued to Enforce the Ordinance.

People who ride bicycles on the sidewalk had best beware. There is a city ordinance which prohibits such actions and the police officers are now ready to start a crusade to stop the practice. Officer John Brown said this afternoon: "In the future we shall see that the riding of bicycles on the sidewalk is stopped. The ordinance will be enforced. Anyone caught violating this ordinance will be arrested and taken into court. We shall play no favorites nor shall we give persons any further notice. Bicycle riding on the sidewalks must stop and will be stopped. It is a nuisance and will not be put up with any longer." Officer Brown means business and this should be taken as a final warning to persons who are in the custom of using the sidewalk in place of the road.

OSHKOSH CASE OF LOCAL INTEREST

Foster Mother of Jessie Robinette Files Sensational Answer in a Suit Commenced by Latter's Husband

Mrs. Alice McMillen of Oshkosh, widow of the late Robert McMillen the wealthy lumberman and foster mother of Jessie McMillen—Quaw—Radford—Myers—Robinette, has through her attorneys filed an answer in the sensational suit brought against her a few weeks ago by J. P. Robinette, the present husband of Jessie, for $25,000 damages for the alleged alienation of his wife's affections. In her answer the charge is denied and counter charges of a serious nature are made. It is alleged by Mrs. McMillen that Jessie was kidnapped and lured by Mr. Robinette in the spring of 1902 and sustained a broken nose and blackened eyes as a result. He is also charged with infidelity, the given name of the woman and the hotels visited being named. In general it is alleged against him that he has led a dissolute and immoral life. Malachi Hogan, the sporting writer for the Chicago Record-Herald and referee in boxing bouts, also comes to play a part in the answer. He is alleged to have been the victim of a murderous attack by Robinette while assisting Mrs. Jessie Robinette in her efforts to get her husband to go home. On a Pullman car between Chicago and Minneapolis he is also charged with applying all manner of vile epithets to his wife, pounding her, tearing her clothing, and ending the performance by throwing her hat out of the window. Robinette has relatives in Janesville and Mrs. Robinette formerly lived here.

ALLEGED WOMAN POISONED GIRL

PRISONER PLEADS INNOCENCE

Declares She Is in No Wise to Blame for Death of Husband's Child, Despite Boy's Allegation That He Bought Strychnine for Her.

Hartford City, Ind., Aug. 4.—Two notes, a vial of tasteless powder, and the testimony of a milk boy, form the evidence upon which Mrs. Rae Anderson Krauss of this place has been arrested charged with causing the death by poisoning of her 18-year-old stepdaughter, Crystal Krauss. Mrs. Krauss was arrested by City Marshal Nelson Worley, and was remanded to jail.

Mrs. Krauss stoutly denies her guilt, and states that her stepdaughter died from the effects of acute indigestion and heart trouble.

Suicide Was First Theory.

Suicide was the first theory adopted to account for the death of the girl, but later investigations pointed so strongly to the agency of another hand in the death that suspicion was directed to Mrs. Krauss.

The evidence upon which the state is building the accusation of murder was furnished by Lloyd Summerville, a boy who has been carrying milk to the Krauss home, and who says Mrs. Krauss sent him to the drug store with a note asking for strychnine. The nature of the contents of a vial which Mrs. Krauss asserts she found in the bed of the girl after her death had been discovered is also held as important evidence against her.

Seeks Burial Permit.

When Crystal Krauss died Tuesday afternoon, her stepmother at once proceeded to the authorities and applied for a burial permit, insisting that her daughter had died from acute indigestion and heart trouble. Her demand, however, the officials refused to grant, as all the indications pointed to strychnine poisoning, and Coroner Hollis was at once sent for to make a post mortem examination, which resulted in a verdict of strychnine poisoning being found by the jury.

During the examination, Mrs. Krauss produced a vial containing a white powder and a note which she claims to have found in the dead girl's bed. The note reads as follows:

"Good-by, papa; I cannot live with you Jim," the Jim referred to being a youthful lover whom her father had forbidden to pay her attention.

Boy Procures Strychnine.

Lloyd Summerville, the milk boy who figures in the case, testified that Monday evening Mrs. Krauss sent him to the Logan drug store with an order signed "Mrs. Shewalter," asking for 15 cents' worth of strychnine with which to kill rats. As Mr. Krauss, the husband of the accused woman, is a druggist, her action in sending the boy to another store and signing another's name is in itself a circumstance held to be fraught with the strongest suspicion.

"It was certainly Mrs. Krauss," the boy avers. "I have delivered milk to the Krauss house for a long time, and I ought to know her when I see her. She gave me 5 cents for doing the errand," he added. The letter to the druggist is now in the possession of Coroner Hollis, who says that the handwriting is identical with that of the note which the prisoner asserts she found in Crystal's bed, and which she would have appeared to have been written by the dead girl.

Neighbor Denies Writing Note.

The coroner has also in his possession several letters written by Crystal about the genuineness of which there is little doubt. The writing of these, he states, bears no resemblance to that of the notes, and to his mind indicates that the note was not written by the girl, but by the writer of the note to the druggist. Two Mrs. Shewalters, neighbors of the Krauss family, from one of which the note purported to have come, deny emphatically having written the letter.

The contents of the vial which Mrs. Krauss claims to have found beside the dead girl have even been tasted by the coroner and by the father of Crystal, both of whom say it is a tasteless powder, wholly unlike strychnine or any other poison of which they know. They have expressed the opinion that it might be talcum powder. Of the strychnine which the boy states he bought for Mrs. Krauss there is not the slightest trace to be found.

Crystal was 18 years old in June and at that time, it is understood, came into possession of the property on North High street occupied by the family, and which was left her by her mother. It is said in this connection that at the time of her marriage Mrs. Krauss signed a paper agreeing to take as her full share of the estate of her husband when he should die $2,000, leaving all the rest to Crystal.

Maintains Her Innocence.

Despite the strong accusations that have been made against her, Mrs. Krauss maintained her innocence. "I am not guilty," she said, with a composed air, when accused of the crime, and it was with a calm mien that she entered the county jail.

Krauss, with his daughter lying dead, and his wife in jail accused of being responsible for the murder, is a nervous wreck. He was unable to accompany his wife to the coroner's examination, and it is feared in case the coroner's jury brings in a verdict charging Mrs. Krauss with the murder he will lose his mind. He professes himself to be convinced, however, of his wife's innocence.

There is no soda in soda-water. Every pint of soda-water contains two and a half pints of carbon dioxide, a gas. Therefore, when you drink one pint of soda-water you really drink three and a half pints.

HIS THREE TRIPS.

BY CHESTER WINTHROP.

It was in the elevator that Darnton first saw her. He was on his way toward the tenth floor of the Studio building to the chaotic den he called his studio. She was bound for the ninth floor, on which was located the dainty apartment she designated by the same name.

His place was a mass of half-finished canvasses, dried paint tubes, broken palettes and other impedimenta, hers a neat workroom where methodically she applied herself to china painting.

They were the sole occupants of the car, and Darnton so far forgot his good manners as to stare rudely at her all the way up the shaft. She left the elevator with burning cheeks and a hot, unreasoning anger at the uncouth person who had so disquieted her.

Not knowing the impression she had made, she supposed that he was merely a pronounced example of the genus flirt. It was a type she particularly detested—and not without reason—ever since reverses had forced her to turn her decorative talent to bread winning. It was not until the second trip that Darnton was forgiven his first offense. They had passed each other several times upon the street or in the hallways, and while the ardent gaze made her cheeks flame she had admitted to herself that the young man on the tenth floor interested her more than she had supposed possible.

The second meeting in the elevator was marked by the sudden stoppage of the car between the eighth and ninth floors. Jimmy, the elevator boy, vainly tried to attract the attention of the janitor, who was supposed to care for the electrical motor, and finally was compelled to worm his way through the narrow space between the top of the car and the level of the ninth floor.

"It looks," he said pleasantly, "as though we were to be imprisoned for some time. I saw Porter going up the street as I came in."

"It is very unfortunate," she responded civilly. "I have an order I am most anxious to fill."

Darnton's face suggested a proper amount of concern. "You will pardon me," he said impulsively, "but I should like awfully well to know you. I have noticed you quite a little since you have moved into the building."

"Your notice," she suggested coldly, "is scarcely of the sort to be ignored by its object."

Darnton was startled. "I say," he protested, "I never meant to be offensive, I assure you. Really, I couldn't help looking. You are Alice Winchester, are you not?" he asked. "At least, that's what the janitor said!"

"You have the advantage of me," she said stiffly.

He smiled pleasantly. "That's easily remedied," he suggested. "My name is Paul Darnton. I am 32 years old, born in this city, a painter in oils and very much at your service. Now we are on terms of equality again."

"You will pardon me," he haughtily, "if I refuse to accept an introduction in the first person."

Darnton stared at her in amazement. He was gently bred and would have been the first to condemn such an action on the part of another.

But Alice Winchester had lived so continuously in his thoughts that it was impossible for him to realize she was not an acquaintance. Her sudden burst of anger brought him to his senses.

"I beg your pardon," he apologized. "But we are such near neighbors I thought you might excuse the informality of an introduction. Will you not forgive me?"

"On condition you do not aggravate your offense," she promised, and a moment later Jimmy appeared to liberate the prisoners and terminate a most unfortunate interview.

Alice's pride enabled her to reach her studio before she gave way to a hysterical burst of tears. She realized that this big, hearty young painter had become more to her than she cared to admit and that by her puritanical refusal to acknowledge his introduction she had cut herself off from his companionship.

After that when they met Darnton avoided her gaze with a stolidness almost as conspicuous as his open admiration, and by so doing lost the tiny smile which she had promised herself she would atone for her severity in the elevator.

So, without speaking, each grew in each other's regard until the third trip toward "heaven," as Darnton designated the top floor of the Studio building.

She had been to a party and he to his club. The elevator boy threw over the lever, and just as the car started heard the hall door slam.

Incautiously thrusting forth his head to see if it was a passenger, the top of the doorway caught his shoulders and threw him out of the car to the floor of the hall. There for a moment he lay stunned while the car continued its upward progress.

With a shriek Alice darted toward the door. Darnton grasped her wrists. "Don't try to jump," he cautioned, "it would be almost certain death."—Boston Globe.

Best Educated Public Man.

The Atlanta Constitution gives John Sharp Williams the credit of being the best educated man in the public service of the nation. He is especially well versed in the political history of nations, and without memoranda of any sort can give offhand the date of the adopting by any people of political policies affecting themselves or others in a material sense.

PORK CAUSES DEATH OF A LAD

Bad Meat Makes Two Families Sick and One Boy Dies.

Marion, O., Aug. 4.—A 10-year-old son of W. H. Curl of Proctor is dead, a 3-year-old daughter may not recover and an 8-year-old son of Albert Benedict of Cardington, who, with his parents, is a guest at the Curl home, is in a precarious condition as a result of eating pork from a hog recently butchered by Curl. There were five members of the Curl family and three of the Benedict and all were taken ill immediately after eating the meat. The attending physician says the meat was improperly cured.

BIG COMMERCIAL STRUGGLE ON

Steamship Fight Divides Austrian and Hungarian Governments.

Vienna, Aug. 4.—The fight between the Czar and German lines is said to have led to a conflict between the Hungarian and Austrian governments, which, it is feared, may seriously affect their commercial relations. The Austro-American line recently has taken from Flume large shipments of corn and sugar. The Hungarian ministry of commerce has now resolved to introduce special combined rail and ocean freight rates.
